A number of day trips also took place over the past couple of weeks. One group in S1 and S2 Anglophone section visited Brabant Flamand recently. On the next page is an article written by one of the students, Elliot Nuyts who participated.

Refugee Walk

A trip to a historic place

The S2EN and S1EN teachers, Ms Hayden and Mr Spooner organized a trip on the 8th of October, 2021. A majestic walk along corn plants and a chance to catch up with your friends made this trip truly special. This trip was in Flemish Brabant which is about an hour away from Brussels. After you have experienced this walk, you may feel sorry for yourself, but when you think of what the refugees had to experience, you may understand a little bit, what the refugees felt and experienced.

You may be lucky and catch sight of some sheep, which in our case, we did. You will also see some anti- tank ditches, which were set up before World War II. Belgium did this, to try to stop German forces from attacking Belgium.

We started the walk in a forest which was quite muddy. After some time, we caught sight of some anti-tank ditches, with dirty water inside of them. As we came out of the forest, we gasped as we saw row upon row of beautiful corn plants. We walked along side of them, in awe. We crossed a few roads, and came to a clearing, where we ate and played games. After about 45 minutes we left the clearing, and continued on our journey.

After about an hour or so, we stopped at a grassy area with a strange, sort of tower in the middle. We all went inside the tower and ate lunch at the top of the tower.

Next, we played a few games, and ate some sweets (as it was someone's birthday). We then left the tower and grassy fields, and walked on bridges, muddy paths, along side corn plants and on pavements to get back to the bus. We also caught sight of some bunkers and even about a dozen sheep!

When we climbed back on the bus, we were all exhausted but happy with the trip. All in all, it was super fun, and I recommend this walk to anyone who likes hiking and beautiful scenery.

'Digital Innovation Education Workshop'

From 11/10 to 19/10 students from S5 and S6 participated in the "Digital Innovation Education Workshop" organized by Ms Rajya Inapakutikala and Ms. Amanda Dieguez. During the workshop students worked on human-centred solutions to the problems faced by their communities. They also learned how to take advantage of technologies to innovation. Overall the programme was a good example of how technology can help find solutions to social problems.
